WIDER SHRIMP MARKET

Is Sought By Com'r Greenleaf—
Banquet For 2000 Dealers

Interested in "widening the markets for Maine shrimp," Sea and Shore Fisheries Commissioner Arthur R. Greenleaf sought to arrange for this seafood to be served at a banquet of over 2000 dealers and jobbers from all sections of the country, in Boston, next month. Meeting for a great national fishery convention, the men will be much interested in this comparatively new product and should be impressed with its quality and flavor, Greenleaf believes.

He wired Deputy Commissioner Charles E. Jackson of the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries that he and Maine dealers would provide the shrimp, if they could have the opportunity to serve them.

Greenleaf said that several Maine dealers had considerable quantities of frozen shrimp on hand "due to the lack of a properly developed market." His Department will co-operate with the Maine Development Commission to establish a nationwide demand for shrimp, he said.

Pastor Entertains

Rev. J. C. MacDonald's
Vacation Trip Portrayed
On Screen

Rev. J. Charles MacDonald, minister of the First Baptist Church, entertained a group of about 175 last evening, showing 400 feet of film, with a variety of subjects, ranging from a much disturbed grandson, Gary Gray, of Montclair, N. J., to scenes of the mighty Niagara Falls and rapids, uncrushing with mad impetuosity to the sea.

The pictures, in color, showed home scenes, featuring flowers, a dog, a cat and a "teddy bear," scenes taken at Rockport and Camden; at Ottawa; at the hospital of the Dionne quintuplets and at Muskoka Lake, Ferndale, Canada, where Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald attended sessions of the Canadian Keswick.

Mr. MacDonald's presentation of the beautiful and highly entertaining pictures closed the "goings on" of the annual "home coming" supper and entertainment held in the church parlors Wednesday evening. The affair, arranged by the deacons and deaconesses, was presided over by Herman M. Hart as master of ceremonies.

Following the excellent supper there was group singing of hymns led by Osmond Palmer; Mrs. Horatio H. Frohock presented the matter of the coming campaign to take care of the church indebtedness, and Mrs. MacDonald gave interesting personal religious and scenic highlights of their vacation trip of about three thousand miles.

Mrs. George A. Brewster was chairman of the supper committee and had the assistance of the following workers; Mrs. Charles Maxey, Mrs. Maurice Snow, Mrs. Horatio Frohock, Mrs. Frances Ryder, Mrs. Abbie Morey, Mrs. Frances Ryder, Mrs. Miss Alice Erskine, Mrs. Raymond Greene and Mrs. Mary Ulmer.

Miss Helen G. MacDonald was head waitress, and captained the following in a manner which made the table service perfect in every detail, even unto the ones seated at the ends of the long tables: Misses Dorothea Merriam, Virginia Merriam, Virginia Gray, Marion Mullen, Dorothy Thomas, Jeannette Philbrook, Barbara Perry, Eleanor Harper and Virginia Egan.

Rockland Lions

Useful Insects Discussed By a State Official — Many Guests

The aroma of election cigars filled the Thorndike Grill yesterday noon, and an ovation was accorded the four members of the Rockland Lions Club who figured among the winners. In this group were State Senator-elect Albert B. Elliot of Thomaston, Sheriff C. Earle Ludwick of Rockland, and Representative Cleveland Sleeper, Jr.

The attempt to get a 100-percent attendance was partially successful, nearly all of the Lions in the city being present at the tables. Visiting Lions were Rev. William E. Berger of Camden, Dr. A. H. Chase of Boston and I. G. Calderwood of Vinal Haven. Other visitors yesterday were Silas Pomeroy of Portland, Ore., Edwin L. Cox of Beaver-ton, Ore., Arthur Spear of Portland, Me., Boyd Lieut. John E. Marks and State Patrolman John Crosby.

Applause of generous quantity was also given to Secretary Lendon C. Jackson, Jr., who recently became a benedict, and Dr. Soule, who is listed among the city's new fathers.

Mill Harry and Harold Leach were appointed members of the October entertainment committee.

Yesterday's guest speaker was George Babb, an employee of the Department of Agriculture. In the course of a most interesting half hour he gave the members of his audience an informative talk about "Useful Insects," aided with a presentation of slides by Dr. "Gilly" Soule, whom he had known since the latter sold magazines in Augusta, and to whom, as a boy and as a physician, he spoke in terms of high praise.

Mr. Babb told of the supervision which the State has expressed this year over 31,500 acres of potatoes through the aid of 21 inspectors. Last year Aroostook County furnished 62 percent of all the seed potatoes raised in this country. He told also of a sucker which inoculates potato tops and the virus is taken into the potatoes. So that when the house wives peel the spuds they find them stringy and with black spots in them.

Mr. Babb described the protective coloring of insects and the methods of the various parasites. Speaking of the tent caterpillars he told how they were so numerous in one town as to stop a freight train. Ninety percent of the tent caterpillars come from horse manure, he said, and could be destroyed by the use of acid.

The speaker told of dead insects and how the carcasses are removed by scavenger beetles.

He discussed the European corn borers at considerable length, describing their action upon that plant through the bottom of the stalk. The borer also operates upon many other plants. He advocated the removal of stalks and stubble, but frankly admitted in response to a subsequent question that he could not account for a recurrence of the borers on lands thus treated.

Showing a picture of a dragon fly he advised his hearers not to become alarmed over its presence, as it certainly does not sew up one's mouth, and is valuable as a parasite. Without parasites, he said, the world could not exist.

FINAL ELECTION FIGURES

Barrows' Majority Is 17,000, Cut Down By Lewiston's Overwhelming Brann Vote

The re-election of Republican Governor Lewis O. Barrows and three G.O.P. congressmen has been written into Maine's election book after a campaign in which the New Deal was made an issue and all successful Congressional candidates embraced the Townsend Plan.

Barrows' victory margin over former Governor Louis J. Brann (D.) settled at 17,000 with an unofficial tabulation of Monday's biennial election virtually complete. A few missing precincts held but a handful of votes. W. V. Tabbutt, Communist, also ran on the gubernatorial ticket.

Barrows, who lambasted the New Deal in campaign speeches, received a congratulatory message from Gov. George D. Allen (R.) of Vermont.

"You've started the snowball," it said. "Let's roll it clear across the country."

Barrows replied: "I concur with your sentiment and suspect you are a good prophet."

Republicans reelected incumbent Representatives James C. Oliver in the First District, Clyde H. Smith in the Second District, and Ralph O. Brewster in the Third. All three bore Townsend endorsement.

Returns from 623 precincts out of 629 in the State gave:

For Governor, Barrows 157,369; Brann 139,842.

First District, complete: Oliver 57,535; Harold B. Emery (D) 40,036.

Second District, 21 precincts out of 212: Smith 56,289; Dubord 47,121.

Third District, 267 precincts out of 271: Brewster 51,236; Melvin P. Roberts (D) 29,712.

Acknowledging Barrows' victory, Brann in a statement voiced his "most certain wish" that Barrows have "a pleasant and successful administration."

J. Fred O'Connell of Bangor, Republican State Committee chairman, expressed his pleasure "that Maine voters stood on their action of two years ago" when Republicans gained control of major offices.

Barrows' plurality, which at one time reached the 21,000 mark in the tabulation, dropped to a stable 17,000 when the late reporting wards in Lewiston, Brann's home city, returned heavy Democratic majorities.

It was Brann's second major defeat. He failed by 5000 votes in 1936 to wrest from Wallace H. White, Jr. (R) his U. S. senatorial seat.

He had previously indicated that this year's campaign "absolutely" would be his last.

"The Black Cat"

By The Roving Reporter

Frank H. Whitney of Fruitland Park, Fla., who formerly ran a fruit store where the Farnsworth Memorial Building is to be erected (eventually) sends me copies of the Tampa (Fla.) Tribune showing pictures of the immense flock of birds which congregates each night at 7 o'clock at the corner of Fourteenth Avenue and Twenty-first street. The sky is literally full of them. The birds are a great attraction for the tourists, but the neighbors complain they are noisy and dirty, and the street department works over time. Plans were being made to shoot them away with fireworks, but the U. S. Biological Survey of the Department of Agriculture stepped in with warnings against molestation. Mr. Whitney writes that his bird houses are occupied from February to July and then they suddenly disappear—whence nobody knows. My tree swallows—beautiful birds of which I was very fond—came much later in the season, but they also disappeared in July.

Rockland is becoming increasingly afflicted with the pigeon nuisance, some of it in the residential section, but mostly in the business zone of Main street. The tourists may like them and the person who likes to be seen feeding them with peanuts may like them, but the awning owners and pedestrians are not quite so happy about it—to say nothing of the condition in which they leave our handsome Federal building.

"I like your Black Cat column" writes my genial Florida friend, who adds to the list of odd names the Jacksonville clothing firm "Ketchum and Cheatham." "Can you find out for me if the ship Red Jacket was lost on Cape Horn. When I was 19 years of age I was sailing in plain sight of Cape Horn, and there was a wreck which the mate told me was the Red Jacket."

"I heard the last whistle of the steamer Cambridge," writes Mr. Whitney. "I was keeper of the light near it, and had to interview Capt. Otis Ingraham in order to get a report for the Government. I was on the spot soon after sunrise." Speaking of "steamers" Mr. Whitney recalls that he rode in the Stanley "steamer" (automobile) which was owned by some Rockland doctor whose name he has forgotten. Friends of the Fruitland Park man will be interested to know that he is making excellent recovery from a very serious operation which gave him but a fifty-fifty chance.

Belated summer offerings are attracting attention, among them a crab apple tree in full bloom at Karl Packard's farm.

In 1896 there was published at this office a book of verse entitled "The Colours at Cambridge," the author being "L. T. G." Can anybody accommodate Miss Rose McNamara of Masonic street, who earnestly desires a copy?

What might be described as personal squashes are exhibited in the window of Crie's Gift Shop. Plainly inscribed on them are these legends: "Pie For Ed Crie," "Margaret, 1938" and "Crie's Gift Shop." The squashes were raised at Lufkin's farm.

The days of the shore resorts and other summer eating places are numbered. I hear of several which have done better than in former years, and that, too, despite a distinctly unfavorable summer.

One community which is shedding no tears over the summer resort business is North Haven. The town has been thronged with summer visitors throughout the season, and it is easy to understand why after one visits that beautiful resort.

One year ago: Hon. Obadiah Gardner celebrated his 87th birthday—Miss Nathalie Jones was appointed junior stenographer in the International Revenue Department.—Rev. J. Charles MacDonald was home from Palestine.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

If I had my life to live again I would have made a rule to read some poetry

THE FATHER

Hearing his son and daughter
Laugh, and talk of dances, theaters,
Of their school, and friends,
And books,
Taking it all for granted—
He sighs a bit,
Remembering wistfully
A certain mill-town
And his boyhood there,
And puts his arm
Across his son's broad shoulder,
Dumbly, as fathers do.

Our Book Corner

For those who enjoyed the correspondence between Joseph H. Simonten of Camden and Gwen Bristow, author of "Deep Summer" and "The Handsome Road," it is pleasant to have Mr. Simonten share with us another letter he has received from Miss Bristow. Written Aug. 8, it reads:

"Thank you for sending me the Courier-Gazette with the article about my books. I enjoyed reading it, and I hope the readers of the paper did, too. Your review of 'The Handsome Road' was an excellent summary, and I appreciated the fine things you said about it. 'You might be interested to know that 'The Handsome Road' is to be published in England this fall, and also in Denmark, Norway and Sweden. 'Deep Summer' has appeared in all those countries and will be translated into Polish this winter, and a Braille edition is also being prepared for blind readers. Nothing has surprised or pleased me more than the splendid appreciation both these stories have received, and I am very grateful to readers like yourself who have welcomed them so kindly."

What were believed to be Napoleon's last written words were bought recently at a London book auction by Gabriel Wells, New York collector, for $4,100. The words comprised the final codicil of the Emperor's will and bequeathed his home in Ajaccio, on the island of Corsica, to his mother—"A mare." The old home was square, plastered in yellowish gray; it had six shuttered front windows on each side of its three stories, a flat roof, and a balcony; an elm tree stood before it. Here in 1764 came Marie Laetitia Ramolino as the 14-year-old bride of Charles Buonaparte. Here she bore 13 children of whom the 16-year-old Napoleon was designated head of the family at the father's death. When the duffless son became Emperor of the French, he gave his mother a title, Madame Mere, and a court. But Laetitia remained unpretentious and thrifty. She never returned to the home in Ajaccio. In 1836 at the age of 88 she died in Rome, having survived her illustrious son by 15 years.

"The Pageant of the States" a lavish volume that will contain a history and full-page map in full color of every state in the Union, will be published on Nov. 4 by Random House, under the official sponsorship of the New York World's Fair. The text for this book has been written by Ernest Sutherland Bates and Dr. Herman Schiff, with an introduction by Grover Whalen. The price of the book will be $2, and the first printing will be 50,000 copies.

The first edition of Granville Hicks' "I Like America" has been sold out within three months after publication. (Modern Age). No less than 25,000 Americans have paid 50 cents each to read how one of Harvard's most famous alumni and faculty members brilliantly answers the familiar query: "If you don't like it here, why don't you go back where you came from?" A second large edition is on the presses.

Paducah, Ky., a town of about 33,000 is proud of one of her boys who has made good. Recently the town started a movement to name a bridge over the Ohio for him. It would be known as the Irvin S. Cobb Bridge. Paducah has often honored Mr. Cobb, humorist, movie actor, short-story writer. There is a brass marker in the sidewalk before the house where he was born 62 years ago. A cigar has been named for him, a beauty shop, a barber shop. Even a Kentucky mint julep honors Irvin S. Cobb.

Kenneth Roberts, author of the leading best-seller, "Trending Into Maine," came to Boston recently to see the tennis matches at Longwood. He gave up one afternoon to an autographing party in Jordan Marsh's book department where a large number of his fans took advantage of the opportunity to obtain autographed books for holiday gifts. "Trending Into Maine" has just gone into its sixth printing.

"Told Out of School," a revealing novel about school-teachers outside the routine of the classroom, will be brought out Sept. 26 by Little, Brown & Company. A. B. Shiffrin is the author.

The death of Owen Winter on July 21 removed the last of the friends and intimates who were leaders in the so-called "Golden Age of the Republic." Oliver Wendell Holmes, Henry Cabot Lodge, Theodore Roosevelt, Winthrop Chanler, Henry Adams.

Leading publishers of England, France, Germany, Hungary, Sweden, Poland, the United States, Italy, Holland and Czechoslovakia have joined forces in sponsoring the second All Nations Prize Novel

Best Pie Maker

Chance To Win a Good Prize At New England Apple Festival

Maine's best apple pie maker, sure of a free trip to Worcester, Mass., and a chance at a $200 prize, may just as well be a man as a woman. In announcing the rules for the contest today Commissioner of Agriculture Frank P. Washburn said that the competition was open to both sexes, married or single, and may the best baker win. Only professional cooks and chefs are barred. The contest conducted to promote apple consumption is a part of the plan of the New England Apple Festival to pick a New England champion at Worcester on Oct. 3. Each of the six states will send their champion for the final competition. The cost of all expenses and prize money will be defrayed by the Festival.

Commissioner Washburn has asked all Maine contestants to either send or take their pies to the offices of the Maine Development Commission at the State House at 2 o'clock on Sept. 20. The various samples of culinary art will be examined and tasted by competent judges and the winner selected. Judging will be based on appearance, crust and filling. The pies are to be "regular apple pies," common size, two crusts, of plain pastry, apple filling and flavored and sweetened to the maker's judgment. Brands and kinds of flours and shortening are at the maker's option. At Worcester all contestants will have an equal chance and prizes of been received from men and women interested in the contest. Commenting on the excellence of Maine apples Washburn predicted that a Maine cook should win and sees great publicity for Maine apples as a result.

Spruce Head folks reported to the sheriff's department Wednesday morning that three strangers were asleep in a Nova Scotia car on a wood road there. The officers found three young men from Glace Bay, Capt. Breton, who were bound for Lincolnville and had lost their way. The officers furnished the directions and the trio went on their way rejoicing.

The Calista Morrill's nose is out of joint. The well known craft which Capt. Stuart Ames has navigated between Rockland and Matinicus, 10, these many years, is soon to be replaced by a 63-footer now approaching completion in Winfield Carter's Yard at Friendship. What's its name? Never you mind, Stuart isn't telling.

Coach Matheson's football squad is hard at work on the Community Park gridiron. Yesterday there was a long signal drill and emphasis was placed on assignments and getting down the plays. This will be repeated today and tomorrow. Dooling, a Freshman, is a new member of the squad, and Post who was with it last year, is back in uniform. The lineup for Saturday's game with Brunswick High will be announced in Saturday's issue. The game will be played at Community Park at 2:30 p. m. The boys are selling season tickets, which can also be obtained at the High School.

Steamer North Haven will leave Swan's Island daily except Sunday at 6 a. m. for Stonington, North Haven and Rockland, due to tie up at Tilson's Wharf at 9:15. On the return she leaves at 2:15. Steamer W. S. White leaves Vinal Haven daily except Sunday at 8 a. m., arriving at Tilson's Wharf at 9:15 and sailing on the return at 2:15 as under summer schedule. Today will be tough on both boats, requiring an extra trip each in the fog, but especially hard on the North Haven which will leave here around 9 o'clock tonight for Swan's Island in order to start her fall schedule from there in the morning.

The acreage of green peas for canning in Maine increased approximately 10 times in the last 15 years. Snap bean acreage has also increased considerably since 1932.

Arroostook county is one of 14 in the northeastern states in which farm tenant loans are to be made by the Farm Security Administration during the current fiscal year. In Maine the program was operative only in Penobscot county last year.

Tests in Wisconsin show that only short, dark green Sudan grass contains dangerous amounts of poison. It is safe to graze "belly high" Sudan grass the experiments show. If favorable growing conditions follow a killing frost the new shoots sent forth by the plant are apt to be very high in poison.

Septic tanks are the proved method of disposing of farm sewage—safely, permanently and at low cost. Installation of a concrete septic tank is not a complicated job. County agents can give complete information on how to do the job. Bulletin No. 210 of the Maine Extension Service, Orono, Maine, tells how to build a tank. Copies of the bulletin are free.

Preliminary returns from 492 of 561 counties voting on the proposed federal marketing agreement for the late potato crop show that the program apparently failed to get the required 66.6 percent majority required to make it effective. The vote from those counties, including most important late potato producing areas, was 11,372 for and 6,116 against. The Maine vote was 1653 for and 1481 against.

THE SEA BREEZE

Mrs. James Gregory

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

How lonely and still it seems in the house today. Last night when I come home I found my canary bird "Dick" lying in his cage, dead. I have had him 11 years and the woman from whom I bought him, said he was a year old when she sold him to me.

He had been a wonderful singer—great company to me as I am alone much of the time. I could talk to "Dick" and as long as there was something alive in the house, if only a bird, every thing seemed all right. Now the fire snapping and clock ticking are the only sounds and how loud the clock seems to tick when one is alone.

I put "Dick" in a tin box, covered him with soft white paper, and buried him under one of the apple trees. I have had several birds, but never one so long, or so dear as "Dick" was.

I still have the sparrows, juncos, and chickadees coming for their bread crumbs, and the latter stay all winter.

In the field is the stump of a birch tree. This covey a pair of chickadees selected it for a nesting place. How they worked to pick out the inside to a depth of eight inches. They had to take out the debris in their bills, drop it, and go back for another billful. When one flew out, the other would go in.

They then made their nest, laid five eggs and hatched their little ones. When the sun shone right, one could see the bird sitting on her nest, or if she was out, the five eggs; and later five birdlings. I wanted to see them when they came out of the nest for the first time but they got by me. The first I knew they were out in the trees, and the parent birds were feeding them.

There are numerous robins about this summer. One built its nest in the apple tree by the well. My window where "Dick's" cage hung for 11 years, looks empty and lonely. Only a bird, but he surely will be missed.

NORTH WALDOBORO

Vacation time is now gone by. And people home to duties lie. The days are warm, the nights are cool. The kids again return to school. All that is warning to us all. That fast approaching is the fall. And soon the chilling winds will blow. Bringing with them sleet and snow. But let us hope that every sire. With mate and children by the fire. May rest in comfort all the while. The snows around their home may pile.

We regret to report that Mrs. Ada Feyler is again sick.

The deceased was a life long resident here with the exception of a few years spent in Bath during the war. as the mother. Jackie Searl plays the role of a rich boy who turns to a life of petty crime "just for the thrill."

The story is a simple and powerful narrative of what takes place in the lives of a mother, son and daughter when the father is sent to prison and the family moves to a sordid tenement district.

The boys become involved with a tough lot of young hoodlums. Embittered by his father's conviction, he takes over leadership of the "mob" and as soon as the most ruthless and daring of the lot. HELP 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

To Flush out Acids and Other Poisonous Waste

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or scanty passages with aching and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the beginning of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Woman's Club Meets

At the head of the table were Mrs. Clinton Cramer president of the Union Club, and Mrs. Frederick Powers, president of the local Club.

Miss Emerson operatic soprano presented a short but interesting lecture on voice training, illustrated with various songs. For her first numbers she chose songs by Amy Fenden, "Love in Damascus," which illustrated "tone color" and is difficult as it changes into five different keys. By listening carefully, the caravan music was detected.

Her second number, for breath control and sustained notes was an antique aria, "Amarilli," by Caccini, which was sung in one in the year 1579. The modern opera of today was presented in "Musetta Waltz" from La Boheme by Puccini.

For her fourth number, she sang several Swedish songs, explaining there are two distinct pronunciations in the Swedish language—the Vykings and Stockholm, hers being the latter. The songs, by Prince Gustaf, Duke of the Upland included, "Where the Roses Grow" and "My Home Midst Hills and Valleys."

Miss Emerson sang request numbers "Somewhere a Voice is Calling" for Mrs. Cramer, and "The Old Refrain" by Kreisler for her accompanist,

DON'T MUFF THIS ONE ... For fashion critics heartily approved this scarab blue wool suit, trimmed with sheared beaver. Self bows tie at collar and belt, and two wide shirred bands of matching crepe are set into top part of dress underneath.

ANOTHER DIRECT HIT! ... Umpire "Beans" Reardon assumed peace-maker's role just in time to catch in "bread basket" a punch aimed by Atwood (left) of Phils at Bartell (right) of Giants, as fists instead of baseballs flew in N. Y. Polo Grounds baseball game.

SEES IMPROVED CARS ... Better visibility is in store for motorists, according to Michael A. Connor, Connecticut motor vehicle commissioner, who announced automotive centers informed him new 1939 models will provide 5 to 25 per cent more windshield and window area. He said press and car manufacturers cooperated in pointing way.

Mrs. Irving Tuttle of Union; and

"A Perfect Day." An impromptu number "When I Grow Too Old to Dream" was sung by Miss Emerson and Mrs. Powers, contralto. Another number of interest was the monologue presented by Mrs. Ida Goss of Union.

Miss Emerson told of having been adopted a few years ago as a member of the Algonquin Tribe of Indians, because of her proficiency in singing songs of the Indian language, and also of the Volf leud speaker.

Mrs. Cramer, president of the Union Club presented a gift to Miss Emerson who responded graciously.

NEW WILLIAMSBURG, VA., IS SETTING FOR MURDER STORY

Residents of this completely reconstructed village have been waiting to see which of its several thousand visitors would write the first novel based upon the changes which have taken place here.

The great Johnson novel, "To Have and To Hold," written many years ago, went a long way toward immortalizing the old Williamsburg.

Old residents of Williamsburg and the students and professors in the College of William and Mary who lived through the reconstruction period — who saw the old town rebuilt before their very eyes, agree that there is a great story to be told.

Leslie Ford, prominent writer who lived for some time in Williamsburg, has at last written the expected novel—a murder mystery called "The Town Cried Murder," which starts in the September issue of Good Housekeeping Magazine.

HORRORS!
[For The Courier-Gazette]
There's the greatest consternation in the realm of concentration—Meaning members who direct the Garden Club.
They discovered to their sorrow And they'll trash it out tomorrow When they meet in deepest horror over the snub.
A member in good standing. So they thought, with no pretending. But they find she has no roses in her yard!
They have taken up the matter. With a clatter, clatter hard. And called a meeting to decide about the snub.
She may receive a blackball. In form of regular court call. Arent the passing shadow on the club.
While roses are for lovers And roses are for joy. The life of every garden's heart 'Tis said, without alloy.
To think that one so charming With a garden so informing. To members who are earnest in their quest.
For the best in all creation To adorn their innovation. And to find that she, of all, Is not their worst.

Roses, roses everywhere In gardens sweet and fair: We will wheedle and cajole her to repeat.
She must plant and cultivate. And redeem, before too late. With a garden full of roses For her care.

Good poets of all nations Put them first in their creations. Our garden club could not withstand this fall.
We are sure about our ethics. Dignified in homeoetics. And we watch our step. With helpful thoughts for all. K. S. F. Rockland.

Mr. and Mrs. George Robinson of Bowdoinham, came to Rockland Sunday, Mr. Robinson visiting relatives for the day and Mrs. Robinson remaining for a week's stay with her mother, Mrs. George Stevens.

It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and those disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. THE SAUNTERER

A. B. Crocker

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—For so these many years, I have been reading the news writers' interviews with famous folks in the columns of The Courier-Gazette but I do not remember of having read an interview with the famous A. B. Crocker. If that is correct, I am one up on the news writers for I had an interview with A. B. Crocker nearly 60 years ago.

In the files of The Courier-Gazette there must be an account of the whale which came ashore on Mosquito Island and measured 66 feet 6 inches in length. I walked around it, climbed upon it, looked at the whale bone and got a good idea of the largest mammal on earth. Although the whale swims, he is not a fish. He has no gills nor scales and he must come to the surface of the water to breathe.

The whalebone whales are: Right whale, humpback, bow head; and the only large whale with teeth is the sperm whale. The killer whale is small, 25 feet being the maximum length. Its teeth are hooked on the inward side. These whales hunt in packs like wolves. They bite into the under lip of a whale bone whale and hang on until the whale drowns and then eat out his tongue.

The Maine Development Commission staged a whale exhibition at Muscongus Bay this summer which is said to have been a grand show. Unfortunately the Roving Reporter was up in Canada interviewing Doctor Dafoe and therefore missed it.

I never interviewed a whaleman, nor was I ever on board a whale ship, so I know of whaling only as I have read accounts of it. In the Department of Comparative Zoology, Harvard Museum, is a model of a New Bedford whaler as of 1851. She is fully rigged with five masts on her davits and two on deck, cutting in stage rigged out on starboard side and everything ship shape.

One hundred years ago whaling ships in the United States were sailing from ports as far East as

RIGHT OUT OF THE AIR

By EARLE FERRIS

Olivia De Havilland, above, has been on Bing Crosby's music hall program three times and yet never met Bing. She mentioned it to Bob Burns on the air the last time. A few minutes later she got a wire from Bing who was listening in at his ranch. "Drop around in the fall again and I'll be there," it said. So a guest star was booked.

Dr. William L. Stidger, who broadcasts his "Getting the Most Out of Life," talks five times a week over the NBC-Blue network, has what he calls a "Dear Willie" department of fan mail. These are letters from people who knew him as a boy in West Virginia.

Carl L. Bixby and Don Becker, above, comprise the first pair of great script writers to collaborate. Their new offering is "Life Can Be Beautiful" and it is being head Monday through Fridays on the NBC-Red network. Becker started in the middle west and is a veteran of 12 years in radio.

Police chiefs are showing special interest in radio's program, "Public Hero No. 1." The series presents plaques, made of guns confiscated from gangsters, to police departments which successfully wage wars on crime.

Fred Uttel, interviewer on "For Men Only," is establishing a record for meeting celebrities. The show features four famous names each week and Uttel chats with all of them on the air.

A sassy little chipmunk has adopted Bob Ripley as his host and good provider, taking advantage of the "free lunch" at the bird-feeding station outside the "Believe It Or Not" man's study window.

Billy House, rotund comedian pictured above and heard over CBS on Sunday nights, is a former vaudeville star. House went from the stage into the movies and was starred in "Merry-Go-Round of 1933." His current series is the first extended radio engagement.

Counting her early and repeat broadcasts and transcriptions, Virginia Payne has given about 3,900 performances in her five years as radio's "Ma Perkins."

Lucille Wall aspired to become an actress during childhood. A playmate entertained a similar desire and both grew up to have their ambitions gratified. Lucille, pictured above, is heard today on "Your Family and Mine" and the playmate, Helen Hayes, is one of America's foremost stage stars.

Aunt Jenny Says: An old saying has it that "good fences make good neighbors," but open gates will do it much quicker.

Wascasset, to Wilmington, Del. Poughkeepsie, N. Y. New Bedford, Nantucket, New London, Sag Harbor, N. Y. Boston at one time had 11 whaling ships. The last whaling vessel sailed from New Bedford, Aug. 25 and was lost on Cuitunk, Aug. 26, 1924.

In 1842 the United States had 652 whaling ships; the remainder of the world, 230. If these mammals should be walking around on earth today and I should meet one, I think I should say to the woman: "Did you read a recent article pertaining to a checked article: 'The snake was not in a hurry, but I was'."

Records of sperm whales show that they reach a length of over 100 feet, with a head 13 feet in height. What a pet one would make to take around on a leash! Think of a sperm whale going down a mile under water and staying 60 minutes, grabbing an octopus and, not liking the taste, spitting out a piece 15 feet in length. As one writer put it, "A sperm whale could have swallowed Jonah driving a four-horse team."

I glean from reading that a bull sperm whale is not a nice animal to meet when he has a toothache. Teeth weighing eight pounds have been taken from a sperm whale's jaw. Whales have their troubles like other animals. One of them eats something, gets indigestion and the world gets ambergris worth at times hundreds of dollars a pound.

NEW CLASSES ADDED TO HORSE SHOW

INCREASED interest has been given to the Springfield Horse Show in connection with the Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, Mass., from Sept. 15 to 24, inclusive, by the special three gaited New England saddle class which will bring together the champions of 38 participating shows in a contest for regional honors. FOR BLUEBERRY INDUSTRY

Legislation Tending To Aid It Must Be Sought the Coming Winter

Agriculture Commissioner Frank P. Washburn said legislation intended to benefit Maine's blueberry industry might be sought next winter.

He said his department, after conferences with blueberry growers, is satisfied that all would welcome an advertising program supported by an industry tax, provided it be made general and applied to all berries and all growers and canners.

The Legislature two years ago established a tax of one cent on each barrel of potatoes shipped out of Maine in an effort to provide a fund for promoting the State's potato program.

Lakewood Theatre

It is a fact of some years standing that the month of September brings some of the most entertaining plays and interesting people of the season to the Lakewood Theatre and this September is no exception.

The current play at Lakewood is "Land of Honey" a new play about Hollywood by John B. Hymer. Starring in the piece is Warren Hymer, well known film comedian and son of the man who wrote it.

Two new players are introduced to Lakewood audiences in "The Land of Honey," and new faces are always interesting in any cast. These new players are Guy Rennie, stage, film and radio performer and world traveler; Elizabeth Dana, stage actress and wife of George Macready, popular member of the Lakewood Players this entire season.

William Barry, actor-playwright, who is well known by Lakewood audiences, makes his first appearance of the season in "Land of Honey." Playwright Hymer has an absorbing story in this play of Hollywood, a rightful mixture of comedy and drama, with the latter predominating.

Next week the Players again turn to straight comedy. Its final week, next week, and the Players like to take leave with their audiences laughing. So the last play of most every season is a comedy and this year it will be "The Milkmaid." This play requires a cast of nine, so that the Lakewood players will remain intact until the very end of the season.
